Assessment and Goals:	The course has two primary goals. First, through course material students will develop a theoretical framework for understanding cultural differences in the construction of aging and the care of elders. Second, by way of short-term service learning projects in a nursing home, students will gain hands-on experience in applying course concepts and will engage in a reciprocal, mutually-beneficial cultural exchange and collaboration with elders, service providers and community members. Assessment of student progress will be gauged by a daily journal assignment and a final paper and oral presentation.
Rationale for Changes or Exceptions:	New: AT THE TIME THIS COURSE WAS CHANGED TO 2 CREDITS, THERE WAS AN EXPECTATION THAT FACULTY CHANGE STUDY ABROAD COURSES FROM FOUR CREDITS TO TWO. THE COURSE DID NOT GO NEARLY AS WELL, AND STUDENTS ARE TELLING ME THAT THEY WOULD PREFER TO HAVE A FOUR CREDIT COURSE (BECAUSE THEY WILL NEED

AT LEAST SIX CREDITS TO GET THE FINANCIAL AID THEY NEED). TWO ADDITIONAL WRITING ASSIGNMENTS, ABOUT 60 ADDITIONAL PAGES OF READING OF ACADEMIC ARTICLES, AS WELL AS THREE ADDITIONAL ACTIVITY TEMPLATES FOR NURSING HOME RESIDENTS WILL BE ADDED TO THE COURSE REQUIREMENTS.

Old: THIS COURSE WAS A MAY SESSION COURSE THAT WILL NOW BE OFFERED IN JANUARY. DUE TO THE SHORTENED TIME PERIOD (4 FEWER DAYS) WE ARE ADJUSTING THE CREDITS ACCORDINGLY. THERE WILL ALSO BE LESS WRITTEN WORK REQUIRED.

Catalog description:	This is an interdisciplinary program housed in the Division of Education. The program is administered by the sport management coordinator. Core courses in sport studies and athletics and in management build a foundation of knowledge and skills related to managing, planning, organizing, budgeting, leading, marketing, and evaluating within the context of an organization or department whose primary product or service is related to sport or physical activity. Carefully selected elective courses prepare students for graduate study (e.g., in business, law, or sport management) or a career in the sport or fitness industry (e.g., athletic director, sport agent, sport marketing, sport media, and managing professional and amateur sport organizations, parks and recreation areas, or sport governing bodies).	<no change>

Brief summary or overview of reason for proposed new program or rationale for changes: Updating information for 2013-2015 catalog. No changes were made.

Adding grade wording to match Sport Management major: "No grades below C- are allowed. Required courses including electives must be taken A-

F, unless they are offered S-N only."

Program Delivery:	• Classroom (majority of program is face-to-face)	<no change>
Mission, Priorities and Interrelatedness:	The proposed interdisciplinary Sport Management minor will provide a rigorous undergraduate liberal arts education via an interdisciplinary mix of courses (i.e., SSA, MGMT, STAT, PHIL, CMR, and ECON). Currently, the sport studies and athletics (SSA) discipline of the Division of Education provides students with the opportunity to be trained as coaches or to receive an area of concentration in sports management. Course work is also offered in lifetime activities and fitness. The new minor is designed to align with the UMM mission in its integration of liberal arts learning outcomes and goals. It is interdisciplinary, requiring similar amounts of course work from the SSA and management disciplines, as well as additional course work from philosophy, statistics, and economics. It serves as a way to educate graduates who can then positively influence communities, from rural to global, regarding their physical health and well-being. Student interest in this area of study is large and long-standing. Students will benefit from the program by graduating with a minor, rather than an area of concentration. The proposed minor has been developed to coincide with current national accreditation standards, other sport management programs, and UMM's programs in an effort to provide students with a meaningful, rigorous, and marketable curriculum. Students deserve the most current and competitive curriculum available and this new curriculum meets those goals.	<no change>
Need and Demand:	Based on the current number of students who are interested in the Sport Management area of concentration each year (i.e. 10) and the input from Bryan Herrmann, the University of Minnesota, Morris, Associate Director of Admissions, the annual number of applicants for the program will likely be greater than 10. To put this number in perspective, sport management is by far the area of concentration that has had the largest average number of graduates over the past five years (10 per year). The next closest areas of concentration are Multicultural Studies, Environmental Studies, and International Studies, with five-year graduation averages of 2.2, 1.4, and 1.4, respectively, per year. In 2010, sport management accounted for more than 65% of all area of concentration graduates. Further, the 2010 class of sport management graduating seniors had the 7th most graduates when compared to existing majors. The proposed minor will create a personalized program of study, as with other minors at UMM. The University currently has qualified faculty to teach the courses who are committed to the program. The inclusion of this minor is compatible with the level of involvement our students have in sport, physical activity, and recreation. For example, one out of every five students at UMM is involved in collegiate athletics. As sport has grown and evolved in this culture, the impact of sport has become sophisticated and complex. Sport management, as an area of study and a career path, includes a broad spectrum of opportunities. This minor will prepare UMM students to be leaders by providing them with a comprehensive awareness of sport and its historical and cultural development, its sociological and psychological foundations, its role in the American economy, and its business, legal, and ethical characteristics.	<no change>
Comparative Advantage:	In an effort to create a nationally recognized sport management curriculum, the proposed minor follows the accreditation standards of the Commission on Sport Management Accreditation (COSMA). The COSMA is the result of a joint effort by the North American Society for Sport Management (NASSM), and the National Association for Sport and Physical Education (NASPE). The proposed curriculum offers a compatible format to other institutions offering a minor in sport management, but it is distinctive in that it is truly interdisciplinary, grounded in the liberal arts, and will provide students with an education that includes a breadth of knowledge that is traditional at UMM. The intended geographic service area parallels the existing service area of UMM. That area is primarily, but not limited to, Minnesota. The prospective student market includes those students who are interested in both a liberal arts education and the specific area of sport management. Another potential service area is China. Almost 40 incoming students from China will be studying economics or management and some of those students may be interested in adding a sport management minor to their course of study.	<no change>
Efficiency, Effectiveness, and use of Resources:	Most of the required courses are already in place and currently servicing students in the sport management area of concentration. New courses for the program will be supported by reducing or replacing previously required course offerings and will be taught by existing faculty. Two new courses will be developed. One is an introductory course that will provide students with a foundation in sport management. The second is a course that will serve as an integrative capstone for students in the major. It will include independent research and a public presentation. Any new courses will be balanced with decreases in existing courses offered in the SSA area. Some courses in the current area of concentration are not included in the proposed minor and will be offered less often. This change will increase faculty resources available for new course work. The existing faculty in management and SSA can support the minor. With growth in the program, a tenure-track position may be needed. The existing physical facilities will accommodate the proposed minor. No new information technology materials are required. No new library collections or support services will be necessary immediately.	<no change>
Program Quality and Diversity Goals:	Meeting the standards of COSMA, students will develop, personally and professionally, into well-educated, ethical, competent sport management professionals. Graduates will demonstrate critical thinking and interdisciplinary knowledge associated with UMM's liberal arts mission and education. Learning outcomes: 1. Socio-Cultural: Understand that sport is a microcosm of society, influenced by cultural traditions, social values, and psychosocial experiences; 2. Management & Leadership: Understand concepts of management and leadership by describing the various skills, roles, and functions of sport managers; 3. Ethics: Analyze moral issues related to sport in its intrinsic and extrinsic dimensions; 4. Marketing: Apply fundamental marketing concepts to the sport industry; 5. Communication: Demonstrate effective oral and written communication skills; 6. Budget & Finance: Understand budget and finance as a critical component of all sport industries; 7. Legal Aspects: Understand legal concepts in areas that they are most likely to encounter within the sport management environment; 8. Economics: Understand basic economic principles and apply those principles to the sport industry; 9. Governance: Understand various agencies that govern sport and identify their authority, organizational structure, and functions. Assessments include performance on course assignments and examinations, including papers, presentations, projects, discussion and participation. Key assessments: 1. Research paper and public presentation in capstone course; 2. Service learning project in Sociological Aspects of Sports or Psychological Aspects of Sports; 3. Self evaluations completed in introductory and capstone courses, and 4. Internship evaluation (when applicable). The Division of Education will conduct program evaluation as part of UMM's seven-year discipline evaluation schedule.	<no change>
Program Development:	The curriculum was developed by examining existing curricula from other universities and the accreditation standards for sport management. That curriculum was refined via several consultations and meetings with Management faculty and in consultation with SSA faculty. Program quality from the learner perspective was addressed by following existing accreditation standards. Quality from the disciplinary perspective was addressed by examining curricula from existing universities that offer sport management and by consulting with faculty in the Management, SSA, and Education areas.	<no change>
