Radio theatre course provides new theatre opportunity at Morris

Summary: Watch the video of students in the course created by Siobhan Bremer, associate professor of theatre.

(April 9, 2011)-After performing radio theater last year in Lanesboro through a profession theatre organization, Siobhan Bremer, associate professor of theatre, returned to campus to develop a radio theater course for Morris students. The class members learned aspects of radio theater writing and acting, and performed two shows for an Alexandria radio station.

In the future, Bremer hopes to develop the course to also incorporate elements of the history of radio theater.

Through personal and academic discovery, the University of Minnesota, Morris provides opportunities for students to grow intellectually, engage in community, experience environmental stewardship and celebrate diversity. A renewable and sustainable educational experience, Morris prepares graduates for careers, for advanced degrees, for lifelong learning, for work world flexibility in the future, and for global citizenship.
