Asking the Big Questions explores faith and spirituality

Summary: The discussion group gathering in September is co-sponsored by the Philosophy Discipline as part of the 2010 Midwest Philosophy Colloquium.

(September 22, 2010)-The monthly Asking the Big Questions campus/community discussion series, sponsored by the Rodney A. Briggs Library, will explore faith and spirituality during the 2010–11 academic year. The series begins on Tuesday, September 28, 2010, at 7 p.m. in the library's McGinnis Room.

The first discussion topic for the group will be Chinese Philosophy. Brooks Jessup, history instructor, will facilitate the conversation. Background readings are available through Briggs Library's e-reserve system.

“There is something very stimulating about sharing thoughts and ideas,” reflects Peter Bremer, reference librarian at Briggs Library. “We do this every month in Asking the Big Questions. There aren't any right or wrong answers. The act of discussing is our reason for coming together as a group. Participants learn as much from each other as from the readings.”

Refreshments will be served at 6:30 p.m. The September gathering is co-sponsored by the Philosophy Discipline as part of the 2010 Midwest Philosophy Colloquium.
