Summary: Romanza, Canada's own 'three tenors,' makes a stop at the University of Minnesota, Morris on Saturday, March 7, at 7:30 p.m. in Edson Auditorium of the Student Center.

(February 18, 2009)-Romanza, Canada's own 'three tenors,' makes a stop at the University of Minnesota, Morris on Saturday, March 7, at 7:30 p.m. in Edson Auditorium of the Student Center.

Romanza, comprised of Philip Grant, Todd Jang and Frederik Robert, sing of love, conquest, betrayal and heartache. Their vocal range is from a melting serenade to a spine tingling 'high C,' creating distinct romance, which is the art of the tenor. The three classically trained young tenors are charged with vitality and talent, born to entertain on the international stage. As soloists, they enjoy rave reviews together audiences have described them as expressive and fun, while joining in harmonies and charming you along the way. The three real life friends use their offstage camaraderie to infuse their performances with intimacy and humor. They have reinvigorated opera hits, Italian favorites, popular folksongs and well-loved ballads with their own tailor-made arrangements for the contemporary audience.
