The Home Grown Economy conference at UMM rescheduled for April 2

Summary: After winter weather forced postponement, Congressman Collin Peterson announced that The Home Grown Economy: Foods from Local Farms as an Economic Development Tool conference has been rescheduled for Monday, April 2.

(January 29, 2007)-After winter weather forced postponement, Congressman Collin Peterson announced that The Home Grown Economy: Foods from Local Farms as an Economic Development Tool conference has been rescheduled for Monday, April 2.

The conference will be held on April 2 at the University of Minnesota, Morris, in partnership with the University of Minnesota, the Minnesota Institute of Sustainable Agriculture, Northwest and West Central Regional Sustainable Development Partnership, U of M Morris, U of M Extension Service and the West Central Research and Outreach Center.

There is a limited amount of space left. Registrations will be taken online at Regional Partnerships.

“We’re seeing a demand for more locally grown foods available in grocery stores and also for consumption in restaurants, schools and hospitals,” Peterson said.

Through personal and academic discovery, the University of Minnesota, Morris provides opportunities for students to grow intellectually, engage in community, experience environmental stewardship and celebrate diversity. A renewable and sustainable educational experience, Morris prepares graduates for careers, for advanced degrees, for lifelong learning, for work world flexibility in the future, and for global citizenship.
