FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Morris Makes Washington Monthly Lists

Summary: The campus was included in the magazine's affordability and public good rankings.

MORRIS, Minnesota (September 1, 2015)—The University of Minnesota, Morris has again been recognized by Washington Monthly for both its affordability and social engagement. The magazine, which released its annual college rankings last week, included Morris on its “Best-Bang-for-the-Buck” and public good-based lists.

The “Best-Bang-for-the-Buck” lists acknowledge American colleges that best help students attain marketable degrees at affordable prices. Of the 403 Midwestern schools included, Morris was ranked 72nd overall. This is the third consecutive year in which the campus has been included on a “Best-Bang-for-the-Buck” list.

In the public-good listings, Morris was ranked 129th out of 248 notable liberal arts colleges. This year marks Morris's ninth consecutive appearance on the list.

Washington Monthly's “Best-Bang-for-the-Buck” rankings are based on “net” price, how well they do graduating the students they admit, and whether those students go on to earn enough to pay off their loans. The public-good listings rate schools based on social mobility, research, and service. Additional information on ranking methodology is available at washingtonmonthly.com/college\_guide/about\_the\_rankings.php.

Founded in 1969, Washington Monthly is a bimonthly nonprofit magazine covering politics, government, culture, and the media. The College Guide and Rankings appear in the magazine's September issue and are available online at washingtonmonthly.com.
