SENIORS VISIT UMM

"The challenge of the future belongs to those that are prepared" remarked Rodney A. Briggs, Dean of the University of Minnesota, Morris at "Open House" on the Morris Campus on December 28 and 29.

High school seniors and their parents from twenty-six Minnesota communities visited the Morris Campus of the University for the briefing and tours.

Briggs introduced the faculty and commented on the need of advanced schooling beyond high school. He discussed the Morris collegiate program as "a liberal arts college with a strong built-in pre-professional program, a quality academic and student program."

The Morris Campus is unique in its program with University standards in faculty selection and course offering and its very strong student counseling and advisement program.

H. G. Croom, Acting Director of Student Services, outlined the many student activities and Dr. Stephen Granger, Counselor, discussed the counseling and advisement program during the briefing.

Following the briefing a tour was taken of the campus.
