UMM TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE THIS WEEK

Open house at the University of Minnesota, Morris campus this week is expected to draw large numbers of area high school students as well as parents and other interested persons.

Scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, December 27 and 28, the two open house sessions will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day.

The program will begin with coffee and registration in Edson Hall. Dean Rodney A. Briggs will then welcome the visitors, review for them the history and development of UMM and discuss the faculty and future of the college.

An overview of the Office of Student Services presented by Professor H. G. Croom, director, will include such departments as financial assistance and part-time work and a discussion of admission policy as well as how to make application to UMM.

Following a tour of the campus led by present UMM students, lunch will be available in the dining hall from 12 to 1 p.m.

Dr. Stephen Granger will review the counseling program at 1 p.m. in Edson Hall. A description of summer orientation, the orientation week preceding fall quarter, the educational, personal and vocational counseling available and the faculty advisement program will be given.

Student organizations and activities, including music, athletics, religious groups, fraternities and other clubs and activities will be summarized by C. Dean Kjolhaug, student personnel worker.

After a short talk by Dean Briggs concluding the program, an opportunity will be provided for visitors to ask questions and seek information from the Office of Student Services.

All interested persons, as well as prospective students and their parents, are invited to attend one of the open house sessions.
