MORRIS (2/11/76) -- Two University of Minnesota, Morris faculty members have returned from a conference of the Association for Teacher Educators (ATE) in St. Louis.

Attending last week were Dr. Arnold Henjum and Dr. Bruce B. Burnes of the UMM Division of Education. They are both executive board members of the Minnesota Association for Teacher Educators (MATE), a state branch of the national organization which is devoted to improving teacher education policies and practices.

Burnes has been named to the organization's National Resolution Committee, and is currently chairperson for the state MATE resolutions committee. He will serve on the national committee three years.
