MORRIS (4/7/76) -- "Lovejoy's Nuclear War," a film about a community in New England and its battle against a nuclear power plant, will be shown Monday (4/12) at 7 p.m. in Edson Auditorium at the University of Minnesota, Morris.

"Lovejoy's Nuclear War" is the winner of the best political film award in the San Francisco International Film Festival and of the Hugo award in the Chicago International Film Festival for 1975.

It deals with the role of the ordinary citizen confronting what the movie reveals as a "massive and potentially catastrophic" technology.

The film is open to the public without charge.
