MORRIS--James Noehl, a member of the University of Minnesota, Morris faculty, was awarded the Chartered Property Casualty Underwriter (C.P.C.U.) designation at the national conferment exercises of the American Institute for Property and Liability Underwriters, Inc. on September 24 in Denver, Colorado.

Mr. Noehl joined the UMM faculty in 1962 as an instructor in economics and business. The recipient of many awards, he has been honored with membership in the Beta Alpha Psi honorary accounting society, a Ford Foundation fellowship at the University of Minnesota during the summer of 1962, and a fellowship from the American Society of University Teachers of Insurance.

Since the Institute was established in 1942, 3767 men and women in the insurance business have received the C.P.C.U. designation. To earn the title, a candidate must pass a series of five intensive professional examinations and meet other requirements of experience and ethical standing set by the Institute.

Subjects are designed to equip persons in the property and casualty field to serve in the interests of the buyer. They include economic problems, insurance law, government and business, accounting, management, finance and principles and practices of insurance.

Last June, 3013 candidates presented themselves at 165 examination centers in 49 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and Venezuela. They attempted 3662 examinations and 2400 papers received passing grades.

From all of this examination, 344 persons were awarded with C.P.C.U. designation, 15 of them from Minnesota. Mr. Noehl was not at the national meeting so the official presentation will be made on November 4 at an all-industry insurance dinner to be held in Minneapolis.
