9-11-2009

Asking the Big Questions group to discuss feminism

University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.morris.umn.edu/urel_news

Recommended Citation

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the External Relations at University of Minnesota Morris Digital Well. It has been accepted for inclusion in University Relations News Archive by an authorized administrator of University of Minnesota Morris Digital Well. For more information, please contact skulann@morris.umn.edu.
Asking the Big Questions group to discuss feminism

Summary: Asking the Big Questions discussion group addresses significant issues facing our world and community.

(September 11, 2009)-Join the campus/community discussion Asking the Big Questions as the group concludes a yearlong exploration of women's issues and looks at the future of feminism. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Social time with snacks and refreshments begins at 6 p.m. Discussion starts at 6:30 pm. The gathering is held in the McGinnis Room in the lower level of the Rodney A. Briggs Library.

Optional April readings are available through Briggs Library Electronic Reserves.

The Asking the Big Questions group discusses significant issues that affect our world and our community, and explores who we are as human beings. In its inaugural year, the club explored the topic of sustainability and climate change. This year, Asking the Big Questions has discussed topics and issues related to women and gender.

Asking the Big Questions is sponsored by Briggs Library, the Commission on Women, and the Office of Sustainability.

For more information contact Peter Bremer